Purpose

The final event as workshop planned for the end of the SPEA project in Barcelona should not be seen as merely the exchange "final" of the project results. The aim is to use the final event as a "springboard" to explain and promote the use (and application) of the project results, to improve procurement of innovation, not only in partner cities, but also to other cities to meet their challenges in energy efficient, innovative contracting models, innovation solutions and inclusion of SMEs as suppliers. This will be achieved by ensuring that:

- The topics to consider especially work with the exchange of experiences and lessons learned;
- Participants identify with the subject and the ability to learn from experience;
- The structure of the workshop will achieve the desired goal; what is the result of a PPI project experience in local administration?
